AMERICAN SCHOOL AT ATHENS

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL OF CLASSICAL STUDIES AT ATHENS was founded by the Archaeological Institute of America, in 1881, and is supported by the coöperation of leading American Universities and Colleges. No charge for tuition is made to graduates of the supporting institutions; other students are required to pay a fee of $25 per annum for tuition and library privileges. Two Fellowships, with a stipend of $600 each, are awarded on examination; the examinations in 1902 will be held on March 20-22; the Agnes Hoppin Memorial Fellowship, with a stipend of $1000, is open to women only. It is awarded, like the other fellowships, on examination. The library of the School contains more than 3000 carefully selected volumes.

The Director of the School is Professor RUFUS B. RICHARDSON, Ph.D. In 1902-1903 GEORGE E. HOWES, Ph.D., Professor of Greek in the University of Vermont, will serve the School as Professor of the Greek Language and Literature, in which office he will be succeeded in 1903-1904 by Professor HAROLD N. FOWLER, Ph.D., of the Western Reserve University.

For further information, address the Chairman of the Managing Committee,

Professor JAMES R. WHEELER,

Columbia University, New York, N.Y.

AMERICAN SCHOOL IN ROME

THE AMERICAN SCHOOL OF CLASSICAL STUDIES IN ROME (Via Vicenza, 5) was founded in 1895 by the Archaeological Institute of America, and is affiliated with it and with the American School at Athens. It offers to graduates in Arts of American colleges, and, under exceptional circumstances, to other persons of marked qualifications, instruction and assistance in advanced classical and archaeological studies. Regular courses of lectures and practical exercises, chiefly in the field or in the museums, are given by the resident American instructors and by distinguished foreign specialists. Liberal opportunities for study are afforded in the great museums and libraries. Archaeological excursions are arranged for and conducted. The Director of the School is Professor RICHARD NORTON; the Professor of Latin for 1901-1902 is Professor FRANK FROST ABBOTT, of the University of Chicago; for 1902-1903, Professor ALBERT G. HARKNESS, of Brown University.

Tuition is free to graduates of "coöperating colleges." Two Fellowships in Classical Archaeology, each of $600, and one in Christian Archaeology, of $500, are awarded annually on competitive examination, which (for the Fellowships of 1902-1903) will be held on March 18-20, 1902.

For further information address the Chairman of the Managing Committee,

Professor ANDREW F. WEST,

Princeton University, Princeton, N.J.
